LABORATORY 10
Comparative Resume Generation using Multiple LLMs

Section 1 – Prompt

Lab 10 focuses on exploring how different Large Language Models (LLMs) generate outputs from the same prompt. A structured prompt was used, requiring the creation of a one-page professional resume with a clean, modern, and monochromatic design, along with specific sections and formatting elements. The task aimed to analyze, compare, and refine the outputs to better understand the effectiveness of prompting and improve the final result.

The prompt used is as follows:

> "Create a one-page professional resume using the following details:
>

- Connecting through Social Networking sites

Use a clean, modern format with clear section headings.
Add section “Character References” at the end but leave as a blank list for 3 possible references.
Use 2-3 clean font style, preferably sans serif.
Emphasize the name at the top of the page.
Add a section beside the name for a 2x2 photo with round frame.
Make it look professional and monochromatic. Keep it concise and suitable for entry-level job applications.”

Section 2 – LLM Outputs

I used ChatGPT to generate LLM 1 and Claude Sonnet 4.5 to generate LLM 2. The results showed that ChatGPT produced a cleaner and more consistent resume, while Claude Sonnet 4.5 generated a more compact and detailed version with better space utilization. Overall, each model demonstrated different strengths in formatting and content, which were later combined to create a stronger final output.

Section 3 – Comparison Table

CRITERIA	LLM #1 (ChatGPT)	LLM #2 (Claude Sonnet 4.5)
Structure	logical and standard structure; key sections are properly organized; easy to navigate	Has a more developed structure; includes all essential sections; The order is logical and easy to follow; it added the course/degree under education section, however, lacks uniform formatting since only the college entry includes this detail
Clarity	content is clear, concise, and easy to understand; communicates relevant information without unnecessary details; bullet points improve readability and allow quick scanning	generally clear; objective is concise and aligned with the intended career path; still understandable but slightly reduced clarity due to inconsistent symbols, formatting distractions
Formatting	formatting is clean and professional; Section dividers (lines) help separate content effectively; does not fit the required prompt of one page; appears basic and less visually refined; the photo placeholder is not visually integrated, only written as text	Attempts a more modern layout (inline details, compact sections), but inconsistent bullet styles across sections which can distract the reader (e.g., "•", "1"); good use of spacing under interests and hobbies section; the photo placeholder is not visually integrated, only written as text; fits the one-page requirement
Overall Quality	strong for an entry-level applicant but dull; it meets the requirements provided: concise, modern, and suitable for job applications; needs improvement on visual layout to appear less monotonous; somewhat generic and less detailed	successfully includes all relevant information and aligns well with the original instructions, making it suitable for entry-level applications; more advanced and content-rich, showing better customization and detail, but weakened by formatting errors

Section 4 – Reflection

In this activity, both LLM outputs demonstrated strengths; however, LLM 2 performed better overall in terms of structure because it utilized space more efficiently and aligned more closely with the requirement of a clean, modern, one-page resume. Its compact layout, including inline contact details and horizontally arranged sections such as interests and hobbies, reduced visual monotony and allowed more information to fit without overcrowding. In contrast, LLM 1 excelled in clarity and consistency, presenting information in a more uniform and polished manner, though it appeared more traditional and less optimized for space.

Several key differences were observed between the two outputs. LLM 1 prioritized readability, consistency, and error-free formatting, while LLM 2 emphasized content depth, modern structure, and efficient layout. However, LLM 2 contained formatting inconsistencies and minor errors, whereas LLM 1 was more submission-ready but less detailed.

In my final resume, I combined the strengths of both outputs by adopting a compact, space-efficient structure while maintaining consistent formatting and clarity. I enhanced the content by including complete educational details and refining descriptions, while correcting errors and improving visual balance.

This activity highlighted that effective prompting requires specificity, iteration, and critical evaluation. I learned that being specific in prompts is essential to reduce the need for multiple revisions, saving time and effort in modifying outputs. It also showed that prompts influence both content and format, and that high-quality results often come from refining instructions and synthesizing multiple responses.

Section 5 – Final Resume

The final resume output is the result of a careful evaluation and refinement process using outputs from two different LLMs. By combining the strengths of LLM 1 and LLM 2, the document achieves a balance between clarity, consistency, and efficient use of space. LLM 1 contributed to the clean formatting and readability, while LLM 2 provided more detailed content and a compact, modern structure. The final version integrates these elements into a polished, professional resume that is well-suited for entry-level job applications.
